Letter from the President & CEO

Back to School and Ready to Learn

Dear Friend,

With summer vacation now behind them, students across Middle Tennessee are settling into a new school year. While some have enjoyed seeing their friends and teachers again, others have been most excited about the return of free and reduced-price breakfasts and lunches through their school meal programs.

Unfortunately, access to this critical resource isn’t enough for thousands of children, who are still at risk of going hungry after school and on weekends. Their parents — who struggle to make ends meet — can’t always afford to provide their sons and daughters with the healthy fruits, vegetables and other nourishing groceries they need. We must not allow this to continue.

Some years ago, a young man was in line at a Second Harvest Kids Cafe to receive an afternoon meal. When it was his turn to receive food, he asked for a few extra apples — his favorite food — to bring home to share with his family. To see his eyes light up when he received those apples was absolutely priceless.

That’s why I’m so grateful for friends like you. Because you support us, children and families in our community have relief in the form of food — no matter what their financial situation may be. Through your gifts to Second Harvest Food Bank of Middle Tennessee, you’re supporting initiatives like Kids Cafe, the BackPack Program and At-Risk Afterschool sites, all of which ensure that kids in our community can thrive inside and outside the classroom.

In this fall issue of Table Topics, you’ll read about some of the countless children and families who are now on the path to success, thanks to your generosity. I hope you’ll be as inspired as I’ve been by their stories of perseverance.

As we begin the fall season with Hunger Action Month this September, I want to thank you for joining us in the fight against hunger in Middle Tennessee. Your efforts make a difference for students every single day.

Sincerely,

Jaynee K. Day
President & CEO

Lencoya and Allery’s three school-age children — Diamond, Maliki and Allery Jr. — attend Una Elementary School in Nashville. Their kids are excited to be back at school after the long summer break.

Lencoya’s health prevents her from working, and between her small, monthly disability assistance and her husband’s unpredictable income as a contract worker, they’re just barely able to meet basic expenses.

To keep the lights on at home, Lencoya and Allery have had to make deep cuts to their food budget. Over time, it’s continued to shrink, even with the help they’re receiving through the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP). Lencoya says recent expenses like school supplies and clothes have only made matters worse.

Because they’re not always able to feed their children a balanced meal — especially on weekends and school holidays — Lencoya is grateful for Second Harvest’s BackPack Program, which operates in 28 counties throughout Middle Tennessee. Each week, Diamond, Maliki and Allery Jr. can take home bags full of nutritious, kid-friendly food that will help them start the next week focused and ready to learn.

Like all kids in the Metro Nashville Public School district, Lencoya and Allery’s kids have access to free breakfasts and lunches at school. But they know that this isn’t enough. Thanks to the help your gifts provide, they’re now able to feed their family, even when the school cafeteria is closed.

Lencoya and Allery are overjoyed by your generosity, which ensures that their kids have the fuel to grow up strong and stay focused in class.

“All I can say is thank you,” says Allery, sincerely. “It’s very appreciated.”

A HUNGER FREE SUMMER, THANKS TO YOU!

You did it! Thanks to you, our Hunger Free Summer campaign was a success. We raised support for 4 million meals to better meet the need this summer for Middle Tennessee families and children. Additionally, thank you to UnitedHealthcare® for donating $100,000 in matching funds to help feed those in need. When the community comes together in this way, we can serve more people and better work to solve hunger right here in Middle Tennessee.
Thank You for Feeding Our Hungry Neighbors!

KENDRA GIVES BACK
We invite you to join us for a Kendra Gives Back Party on Thursday, September 10, from 5:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. at the Kendra Scott shop at Hill Center Green Hills. Enjoy sips and sweets while you shop jewelry and accessories with 20 percent of sales benefitting Second Harvest.

VOLUNTEER & HAVE A BEER
Join Friends of the Food Bank, Second Harvest’s young professional group, to kick off Hunger Action Month by signing up to Volunteer & Have a Beer. This volunteer event will take place at Second Harvest on Tuesday, September 1. Register at secondharvestmidtn.org/friends.

HARVEST MOON BALL
On Saturday, November 14, Jennifer and Cal Turner III will chair the 32nd annual Harvest Moon Ball. This is Second Harvest’s largest fundraising event celebrating our hunger relief efforts. For more information, call Chelsey Shults at 615-627-1565.

TENNESSEE TITANS FOOD DRIVE – SPONSORED BY KROGER
Bring non-perishable food donations to Nissan Stadium when the Titans take on the Panthers Sunday, November 15. Volunteers will be accepting donations at the Charity Drop-off points around the stadium.

HUNGER ACTION MONTH
This September is Hunger Action Month. Whether by advocating to raise awareness, making donations or volunteering, you can be a part of the solution to end hunger in our community. Wear orange on Thursday, September 3, for Hunger Action Day, and follow the hashtag #HungerActionTN or visit secondharvestmidtn.org for more ways you can take action in the fight against hunger. Thank you to our local sponsors, Fifth Third Bank, Kroger, Lee Company and Sunoco for supporting Hunger Action Month.
Christine Konradi, Ph.D. and Stephan Heckers, M.D., spent the last several years building a life together in Middle Tennessee. Originally from Austria and Germany, respectively, both work for Vanderbilt University, where he chairs the psychiatry department, and she directs the department of pharmacology’s graduate studies program.

Christine was first introduced to Second Harvest about three years ago when she joined a friend for lunch at our onsite First Harvest Café. After lunch, Christine took a tour and was so moved by her experience she immediately got involved.

Soon, Stephan and their children began to help as well. The family has since made several trips to volunteer their time, in addition to making financial donations.

“The Food Bank does something very special that allows people to actively participate and donate — that’s a rare opportunity,” says Stephan.

The couple especially appreciates the chance to pass values on to their children by teaching them how to help others who aren’t as fortunate.

As the family evaluated how to plan their year-end charitable giving, Christine and Stephan wanted to do something significant and a little “out of the box” for Second Harvest. They reached out to ask what specific needs they could help address.

The warehouse team had an immediate need for pallet jacks, tools that can help lift and move large, heavy quantities of food around more efficiently. Christine and Stephan jumped at the chance to provide two of these important tools, among other helpful items.

There are many ways to help our hungry neighbors, and providing warehouse equipment is just one way to make an impact. To keep Second Harvest’s food distributions moving, it requires the help of the whole community, and we’re so very grateful to have such generous friends who understand this need.

Thank you, Christine and Stephan, for your partnership and creative investments as we work together to feed more children, families and seniors in Middle Tennessee.

REMEMBER US IN YOUR WILL

One of the most lasting ways to fight hunger in our community is to include Second Harvest in your legacy plans. All you have to do is contact your financial advisor and specify the amount you wish to give to Second Harvest, or designate a percentage of your estate to be donated. Following is an example of the language you can use when making a bequest:

“I, [name], of [city, state, ZIP], give, devise, and bequeath to Second Harvest Food Bank of Middle Tennessee [written amount or percentage of the estate or description of property] for its unrestricted use and purpose.”

Please be sure to notify Second Harvest of your bequest so that we can properly thank you for your support!

Contact Emma Harwell, at 615-627-1578 or emma.harwell@secondharvestmidtn.org, with any questions about including Second Harvest Food Bank in your will or living trust. We’re more than happy to help without any obligation on your part.
You’re Giving Families Hope

A few years ago, Dana’s life was falling apart. Forced to stop working in order to recover from a serious medical condition, she had to rely on her husband as the sole provider for her and their three boys — Cameron, Seth and Zachary.

With a much smaller budget to work with, Dana found she wasn’t able to put enough food on the table each week. As time went on, it became difficult to hide this struggle from her children, especially when they wanted to invite friends over for dinner.

“Sometimes [they] couldn’t have [friends] over because we didn’t have enough food,” she says, remembering her heartbreak when she had to say no.

Fortunately, generous friends like you ensured Dana was able to receive help when her family needed it most. Each time she visited the Bethesda Center, her local Second Harvest Partner Agency in Cheatham County, she was greeted with a box full of food. This resource supplemented her tight grocery budget so she was able to prepare balanced, wholesome meals that would last for days.

In addition to the food, Dana found a sense of purpose through the Center. As her health improved, she began volunteering her time. Eventually Dana became so committed to helping others that she took on a full-time job at the Bethesda Center! She says it meant a lot to not only receive help, but also to give back.

Today, all but one of Dana’s boys are grown and out on their own. And although it’s been a while since her family has needed help with food, Dana’s still grateful every day for your generosity.

“You thank you,” she says. “You’re making a huge difference. There’s a way to get back on your feet and start anew, and Second Harvest represents that — they give hope.”
Hungry Students Have Help, Thanks to You

Now that school’s in session, Antwan Majors, the afterschool program coordinator at East Park Community Center, is back to helping connect dozens of Nashville children with healthy afternoon meals. With such a high demand for food, he’s grateful to be partnering with Second Harvest to meet the need through the At-Risk Afterschool program.

Antwan says that most of the kids served by his program take advantage of free and reduced-price breakfasts and lunches at school. He adds that without the meals provided at the community center, many of them would go to bed hungry. But thanks to you, there are plenty of nutritious, kid-friendly options that keep students like Lebron coming back.

"It’s really good food,” says Lebron. “The bananas are awesome!"

In addition to the afterschool meals, Antwan oversees homework help, sports and other activities. He always notes a visible change in the kids once they’ve had something to eat. With full stomachs, they have the energy to continue learning and playing until it’s time to go home.

Without help with food, kids like Lebron risk going to bed hungry. That’s why your generosity matters so much. With every gift you make to Second Harvest, students at risk of missing meals have support when they need it most.

On behalf of children like Lebron, thank you for helping feed hungry kids. Your gifts ensure a bright future for the next generation.

“I look forward to coming every day,” says Lebron, sincerely grateful for the food you help provide.
