Thanks for You

Thank You for Helping Our Community Rebuild

Dear Friend,

Your support is life-changing. During these trying months, we've seen your gifts in action. You've made a real impact for your neighbors facing hunger.

Because you choose to give, Second Harvest Food Bank of Middle Tennessee can share healthy food safely and efficiently through our network of partners and programs.

But the serious need for hunger relief persists. We expect even greater demand this fall as federal unemployment funding runs out and families continue to cope with the possibility of delayed or altered school schedules.

Anytime children are out of class – whether for a weekend or an unexpected school closure – they can lose reliable access to free and reduced-price school meals. If you have the means, I hope you'll continue to help provide food assistance for people who might otherwise go hungry this fall.

There's no better time to show your support for hunger relief. September is Hunger Action Month, an annual nationwide campaign that brings attention to the issue of food insecurity. Please join our community in giving voice, funds, and volunteer hours to fight hunger.

I truly couldn't be more grateful to have your partnership in this important work. You bring hope in the form of nutritious food to children, families, and seniors who might otherwise go hungry. Thank you for your generosity and compassion.

With my sincere thanks,

Nancy Keil
President & CEO

You've Been a Lifeline to Loretha and Javier's Family

JAVIER AND LORETHA AT GLENCLIFF HIGH SCHOOL IN NASHVILLE

“This will help our family eat. Thank you!”

“It all happened at once,” Loretha says. “My work stopped. His work stopped. The money just stopped coming in.”

She earned an income selling handmade jewelry at craft shows and farmers markets, and her husband, Javier, worked as an engineer at local hotels. But since the pandemic hit, the couple has been missing paychecks and struggling to provide for their two boys, ages 13 and 14.

“We had a little bit of savings to help us get by at first,” Javier says. “But you can't live off that.”

He's been looking at jobs in local warehouses but worries about the risk of exposure to COVID-19. One of his and Loretha's sons has severe respiratory issues, and the possibility of bringing the virus home to his family is a serious concern.

Like all of us, the couple looks forward to better days ahead for their family. In the meantime, they're grateful they can pick up healthy food from Glencliff High School, which partners with Second Harvest Food Bank of Middle Tennessee to share healthy groceries in southeast Nashville.

Friends like you have been bringing families like theirs hope throughout this crisis.

“You're helping us — this will help our family eat,” Loretha says. “Thank you!”

You're paving the way for our community's shared future. Thank you for your generous partnership in the fight against hunger.

Jessica and Weston Share Hope Every Day of the Year!

Watching their city struggle in the wake of tornadoes and the COVID-19 pandemic, Jessica and Weston Langdon decided they had to help.

“As restrictions were being put into place, our family felt a sense of panic about whether there would be food shortages and enough access to food,” Jessica, an interior designer, says. “It brought to the forefront that some Nashvillians experience this feeling every day — not just in a crisis — and we wanted to help.”

The new monthly donors, who have a 1-year-old son named Theo, say they choose to support Second Harvest because we are “providing an invaluable resource to our community.”

Please consider joining Jessica and Weston as a Second Helping monthly donor at secondharvestmidtn.org/monthly. Ready to upgrade your monthly donation? Call Destinye Patton at 615-627-1611.

You're Having a Profound Impact

The demand on Second Harvest's emergency food network has skyrocketed during this pandemic. We've distributed more than 17 million meals since the start of our emergency response. We're so grateful you're helping us keep food on the table for Tennesseans during this challenging time.

Volunteers load food into clients' vehicles during a no-contact, drive-thru distribution with One Gen Away at Columbia State Community College. During this May 2 distribution in Maury County, about 25,000 pounds of food were shared with 500 families.

Reneh and her husband, Oliver, are out of work. When we met Reneh on May 20, it was her family's first time at a food pantry. Her son, Matthew, was excited to get apples and vegetables at the Glencliff High School distribution in Nashville. He says, "Thank you so much for helping my family."

Aalaya, 7, lives in North Nashville at an apartment complex where West Nashville Dream Center sets up activities for local kids and serves them lunch. "We need to eat healthy because of COVID-19," Aalaya says. "I have four favorite vegetables: cucumbers, broccoli, tomatoes, and lettuce. I really like salad, with lots of ranch dressing."

Volunteers unload a Second Harvest truck before a no-contact, drive-thru distribution at Joseph Storehouse in Lebanon. During this May 30 distribution in Wilson County, 21,000 pounds of food were shared with about 700 people.

Single moms and longtime best friends Jeanne (left) and Britnay have struggled to support their families during the pandemic. Jeanne hasn't received child support since mid-March. A hairstylist, Britnay lost her clientele when pandemic closures began. The friends found help at a First Pentecostal Church Mobile Pantry in Lexington.

FALL EVENT NEWS

Because Second Harvest cares about your safety, we've decided not to launch our new signature event this fall. And as of press time, the future of our biggest food drives – Tennessee Titans and News 2 Food 2 Families – is still unknown.

This hurts because we miss seeing you all, and because we rely on these events to help support our feeding programs. But our first priority is your safety, so we'll continue to err on the side of caution.

Please keep an eye on our Events Calendar and your email inbox to see which events have been rescheduled, reinvented, or moved online. Take care of yourselves until we meet again!

Christopher and Natosha Are Giving Thanks for You

“ This is a blessing and shows that people still care, that no matter what is going on they come together and try to help. ”

About a year ago, Natosha and her husband, Christopher, took a leap of faith. The couple invested most of their savings in their new cleaning business.

They were having success with both residential and commercial clients. But then there was the COVID-19 outbreak.

“We understand why clients have cancelled,” Christopher says. “It’s a scary time.”

It was jarring and sad to see the business they were building suddenly halt. The couple wasn’t sure what to do.

“When you work for yourself, you have no one to lean back on,” Natosha says.

Unfortunately, because they work for themselves, she and Christopher have been struggling to access unemployment benefits. That’s why they’re so glad they found out about the Second Harvest grocery distribution at McGavock High School near their home in Donelson.

Volunteers at McGavock place boxes of healthy food directly in visitors’ car trunks to provide food assistance as safely and efficiently as possible.

NATOSHA AND CHRISTOPHER AT MCGAVOCK HIGH SCHOOL IN DONELSON

“This is truly a blessing,” Natosha says. “Not having to worry about paying for food so we can cover our other expenses...it’s a godsend. We can’t thank you enough.”

During these uncertain times, it’s a real comfort for your neighbors to know they have you in their corner. Thank you for helping build a brighter future.

“This is a blessing and shows that people still care, that no matter what is going on they come together and try to help,” Christopher says to friends like you.

May Dean's Legacy of Hope

May Dean Eberling lived a life of service. No matter how busy she was at work, the Nashville woman took care of her neighbors — and everyone she met was her neighbor. Compassionate to the core, May Dean was always doing individual acts of service as well as leading group volunteer endeavors.

She served on more than 20 nonprofit boards in Middle Tennessee in her lifetime!

So it's not surprising May Dean wanted to continue these good works long into the future. Before she passed away last year, she established a charitable estate gift benefiting Second Harvest. By supporting our work, May Dean carries on her legacy of feeding Tennesseans who are struggling with hunger.

Inspired by May Dean? Learn more about leaving a legacy gift to Second Harvest by calling Marian Eidson at 615-627-1564.

Thank You for Putting a Smile on Natalie's Face

Natalie, 11, lives with her parents and older sister, Olivia, 15, near Gainsboro. She has good insight into her family's situation for her young age.

"We can't go buy a ton of groceries like all these other people can," she says.

Natalie's mom has a disability that keeps her from working, and her dad hasn't been able to make money due to business closures. He's a furniture maker, and the stores that sell his work were shut down for months. The family was relying on savings and retirement funds when they found out about New Hope Baptist Church Care Center, a Second Harvest Partner Agency.

“Thank you for putting your hearts out and doing this for us.”

The pantry has been distributing food at a drive-thru at the Jackson County Fairgrounds. Natalie has been worried about contracting the virus — especially since her aunt was infected.

Natalie appreciates the extra steps the pantry is taking to keep her and her family safe, and she loves the food. On a recent visit, Natalie and her mom, Betty, were able to pick up yogurt, apples, and salad to fill their family's table.

"Thank you for putting your hearts out and doing this for us," Natalie says. "You're amazing people."

"We are very thankful for you and for the food," Betty adds.

You're making a real difference in the lives of children, families, and seniors who might otherwise go hungry at this critical time. Thank you!
